The gap between the theoretical and realized values of companies' growth projects may be the result of a precancerous polyp detected in the colon during a preventive screening. This can help motivate you to adopt a colon-healthy diet. The locals say the fish here are more discerning, and if you spend some time here, you may notice a difference in the catch.